EXPERIENCE

Professor, Department of Landscape Architecture. North Carolina State University. January 2019 – present. Teach courses focused on the intersection of natural hazards, disasters, and climate change adaptation. Advise and mentor graduate students. Coordinate the development of a pan-university cluster focused on coastal resilience. Develop and implement a graduate certificate program focused on disaster resilient design. Work with faculty within the College of Design and across campus to develop interdisciplinary research, education and engagement initiatives. Coordinate the emerging International Learning Laboratory which seeks to foster international lesson drawing advancing evidence-based disaster resilience and adaptation policy and planning spanning the United States, Australia, Vietnam, and other countries as identified.

EXPERIENCE (continued)

Senior Disaster Recovery Advisor/Chief of Hurricane Matthew Disaster Recovery and Resilience Initiative. State of North Carolina. January 2017 – January 2019. Advise the Director of the North Carolina Division of Emergency Management and senior staff on a range of disaster recovery issues and lead a team comprised of faculty and students from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the North Carolina College of Design to assist 6 hard-hit communities with modest to low capacity following Hurricane Matthew. Specific activities undertaken in partnership with the six communities include: developing disaster recovery plans, developing open space management plans for the use of land following the acquisition and demolition of flood-prone properties, identifying replacement housing sites within each town's jurisdiction that is located outside the floodplain, leading a 5-day design workshop focused on the partial relocation of a flood-prone town, creating replacement housing drawings, assessing techniques to flood-proof historic downtowns, and conducting an assessment of post-disaster housing policy options.

Director, U.S. Department of Homeland Security Coastal Resilience Center of Excellence. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. April 2015 – January 2019. Lead multi-disciplinary center. Emphasis is placed on managing more than 27 universities located across the United States; fostering partnerships between practitioners, researchers, and educators; translating findings to practice; and creating the next generation of hazards scholars and policymakers. Lead a 10-hour Graduate Certificate in Natural Hazards Resilience located in the Department of City and Regional Planning.

Research Professor. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Department of City and Regional Planning. May 2015 – January 2019. Teach the following courses: Planning for Natural Hazards and Climate Change Adaptation, Survey of Natural Hazards and Disasters, Natural Hazards Resilience Speaker Series, and special topics as identified. Advise master's and Ph.D. candidates. In October 2018, completed Obama White House supported project which assesses the current state of resilient design curricula across the United States at schools of architecture, building sciences, engineering, landscape architecture, and land use planning.

Executive Director. U.S. Department of Homeland Security Coastal Hazards Center of Excellence. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. June 2008 – July 2015. As the primary administrator of the multidisciplinary Coastal Hazards Center (CHC), specific tasks included the identification of funding opportunities (coordinated the writing of the winning six-year, $15,250,000 CHC grant proposal), building partnerships among hazard scholars and practitioners, and managing additional research initiatives as they emerge. Personal research included a six-year study focused on assessing the quality of state and local hazard mitigation plans (Co-PI). Additional research focused on the role of states in disaster recovery, including gubernatorial leadership. This work, which included conducting filmed interviews with governors and state agency officials, formed the basis of a video-based training guide and journal articles. Additional translational efforts included participating in a number of federal and state committees and regularly advising nations, states, FEMA, EPA, Sea Grant and other organizations charged with a range of disaster-related policy issues. Led the coordination and writing of the winning five-year, $20,000,000 U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Coastal Resilience Center of Excellence proposal, a multi-university initiative beginning in April of 2015.

Associate Research Professor. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Department of City and Regional Planning. June 2008 – April 2015. Dr. Smith completed the text Planning for Post-Disaster Recovery: A Review of the United States Disaster Assistance Framework (Island Press 2011) and more recently co-edited the volume Adapting to Climate Change: Lessons from Natural Hazards Planning (Springer 2014). Courses taught include Planning for Natural Hazards and Climate Change Adaptation, Survey of Natural Hazards and Disasters, Disaster Recovery Planning, and Special Topics within the Department of City and Regional Planning. In 2013, Dr. Smith served as a guest lecturer in a course titled Creating Resilient Cities at Harvard University's Graduate School of Design. For the past three summers Dr. Smith has served as a guest lecturer at the University of Hawaii at Manoa where he has taught classes focused on disaster recovery as part of the National Disaster Preparedness Training Center and Department of City and Regional Planning's Certificate Program in Disaster Management and Humanitarian Assistance.

Principal Professional. Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan. August 2006 – May 2008.

As one of 10 individuals designated as a principal professional within a 4,000 person firm, specific duties were tied to the provision of high level policy counsel to governors, federal agencies, corporations, universities, and nations regarding disaster recovery and hazard mitigation practice. Projects performed for the State of Mississippi (see below) are indicative of this type of service.

Executive Director, Mississippi Governor's Office of Recovery and Renewal. January 2006 – January 2007. Served as the Director of the Governor's Office of Recovery and Renewal, a legislatively-appointed position following Hurricane Katrina. Primary tasks focused on four key objectives: identifying federal, state, non-profit, foundation, and corporate financial assistance; providing policy counsel to the Governor, his staff and cabinet members, state agency officials, non-profits, and other organization regarding recovery policy formulation and implementation; assisting in the identification of appropriate organizations responsible for the implementation of the policy recommendations found in the Governor's Commission Report: After Katrina Building Back Better Than Ever; and the development of education, outreach, and training initiatives associated with long-term disaster recovery. In this role, Dr. Smith helped develop the concept and wrote policy guidance associated with the $400,000,000 Alternative Housing Pilot Program, a Congressionally-appropriated initiative to test the construction and deployment of improved emergency housing alternatives following Hurricane Katrina in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana. Dr. Smith also led the development of the $250,000,000 winning proposal for the State of Mississippi funded through the Alternative Housing Pilot Program.

Policy Advisor, Governor's Commission on Recovery, Rebuilding and Renewal. November 2005 – January 2006. Provided planning guidance and post-disaster recovery policy counsel to the Governor's Commission on Recovery, Rebuilding, and Renewal. Participated in the Mississippi Renewal Forum, a week-long planning charrette comprised of over 150 architects, engineers, and land-use planners focused on the creation of 11 municipal-level design-based plans intended to guide the rebuilding of coastal communities. Specific tasks included advising design professionals about the implications of the National Flood Insurance Program and how hazard mitigation techniques could be incorporated into plans, site designs, and individual structures. Conducted public meetings with community leaders and disaster survivors in order to gain their input into the creation of community-level plans and the state's recovery policy plan, After Katrina: Building Back Better than Ever. Assisted in the writing of the state plan, which contains 264 policy recommendations drawn from the work performed by 11 committees and over 300 members.

Adjunct Faculty, Guest Lecturer. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Department of City and Regional Planning. August 2002 – November 2007. Conducted guest lectures on hazard mitigation, disaster recovery planning, coastal zone management, and environmental planning within the Department of City and Regional Planning. Additional guest lectures included those conducted at Texas A&M University's College of Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning and the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences; the University of North Carolina, Charlotte, School of Engineering; Chungbuk National University (South Korea), Department of Public Administration; the University of Mississippi, School of Business; the National Science Foundation; and the National Academy of Sciences.

Program Manager, Planning and Grants Management. Risk and Emergency Management Division. Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan (PBS&J). December 2002 – October 2005. As Program Manager within PBS&J's Risk and Emergency Management Division. Duties included developing client relationships; managing program staff; writing proposals; overseeing the development of state, local, and university hazard mitigation and disaster recovery plans; and providing pre and post-disaster grants management and policy consultation services to local, state, and national governments. Project management duties included working with FEMA, states, and over 250 counties and municipal governments across the United States to develop hazard mitigation plans that complied with state and federal requirements. During this three year period, Dr. Smith led hazard mitigation planning teams that won over 85% of all competitive proposals submitted.

Vice President for Professional Services, Durham Technologies, Inc. June 2002 – November 2002. Assisted states and local governments with local mitigation and disaster recovery planning, hazard identification, risk assessment, natural and man-made loss estimation methodologies, gathering and analyzing data to aid in decision making and policy formulation, grants management technical assistance, and training. Provided mitigation and disaster recovery policy guidance to states and countries in both the pre and post disaster environment. This included how to build a post-disaster mitigation and recovery team, the identification of Congressionally-appropriated funds above those associated with the Stafford Act, and the provision of specialized assistance to policymakers.

Assistant Director for Hazard Mitigation, North Carolina Division of Emergency Management. May 1998 – May 2002. Primary tasks focused on the management of all aspects of the Hazard Mitigation Section in the North Carolina Division of Emergency Management. The Mitigation Section was comprised of as many as 50 staff in four branches, including: Grants Management; Risk Assessment, Planning, and Outreach; Floodplain Management; and Legal/Real Estate. Key objectives included the development and implementation of a comprehensive mitigation ethic in North Carolina; the integration of all state mitigation activities; incorporating mitigation into all phases of emergency management; and institutionalizing hazard mitigation practice among homeowners, local governments, regional organizations, state agencies, the private sector, academia, and non-profits.

Specific tasks included the development of national and state policy regarding the use of disaster recovery funding and mitigation programs, the management of mitigation staff, and the administration of five grant programs in excess of 800 million dollars. The five primary grant programs administered in this section include the Hazard Mitigation Grant Program (HMGP), Hurricane Floyd Supplemental (Congressional) Appropriation, the Flood Mitigation Assistance Program, the Pre-Disaster Mitigation fund, and the Tenant Relocation fund. As Assistant Director, Dr. Smith oversaw the acquisition / relocation and elevation of over 5,000 and 1,000 flood prone properties respectively.

Additional work involved presenting information at national and state conferences and conducting television, radio, and newspaper interviews. Served on several state and national committees that regularly engaged in policy dialogue with state and FEMA officials related to disaster recovery programs and new federal and state initiatives, including the Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000 and N.C. Senate Bill 300 (codifying state recovery programs noted below). Regularly addressed congressional inquiries concerning mitigation-related issues, performed the role of Governor's Authorized Representative on all mitigation issues, assisted the state assess unmet disaster recovery funding needs and briefed the Governor, cabinet officials, and the North Carolina Congressional delegation as required. Developed requests for supplemental Congressional appropriations following major disasters and chaired the State Hazard Mitigation and Long-term Recovery Advisory Group. Dr. Smith served as an advisor to Governor Hunt on policies and programs associated with long-term recovery in North Carolina. This work led to the development of 22 state programs, which totaled $836,000,000. The intent of the state recovery programs were to address local needs not met by federal assistance, including the development of the State's nationally recognized floodplain mapping initiative. This state program, the first of its kind in the country, has assumed the federal responsibility to create and disseminate up to date Flood Insurance Rate Maps to local governments, insurance agents, and citizens.

State Hazard Mitigation Officer, North Carolina Division of Emergency Management.

June 1997 – May 1998. Developed a comprehensive hazard mitigation program in the Division that was nonexistent prior to 1997. Tasks involved creating new policies and procedures and the oversight of 14 mitigation personnel that were charged with the development and implementation of over 140 Hazard Mitigation Grant Program projects that exceeded $112,000,000. Created the State Hazard Mitigation Advisory Group, which was responsible for the development and implementation of inter-agency mitigation policy such as community reinvestment following a disaster, sustainable re-development, coordination of state agency funding, and seeking federal disaster assistance that was unavailable through FEMA. Established the North Carolina Hazard Mitigation Planning Initiative, a state-wide hazard mitigation planning effort that ultimately served as a model for the rules promulgated under the Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000 – federal legislation requiring the creation of state and local hazard mitigation plans in order to remain eligible for pre- and post-disaster federal assistance.

Hazard Mitigation Planning Coordinator, North Carolina Division of Emergency

Management. January 1997 – June 1997. Oversight of hazard mitigation activities for the State of North Carolina. Managed 8 mitigation personnel, developed mitigation policy, and provided technical assistance to local governments regarding mitigation planning and the administration of the Hazard Mitigation Grant Program. Served as the Division of Emergency Management Liaison to the Governors Disaster Recovery Task Force. This position involved the critical review of issues facing Emergency Management and other State agencies following Hurricane Fran and writing policy recommendations addressing these concerns. The recommendations were published in the report North Carolina Disaster Recovery Task Force: Recommendations for Action. Wrote the North Carolina Mitigation Strategy Report which provided mitigation guidance to local governments, the Mitigation Section, and state agencies.

National Flood Insurance Program Planner. August 1996 – January 1997. Developed new mitigation policies and procedures including the prioritization of over 300 Hazard Mitigation Grant Program applications following Hurricane Fran. Conducted National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) compliance visits, provided NFIP technical guidance, identified non-participating communities, and conducted a statewide outreach effort to encourage NFIP participation. Performed Preliminary Damage Assessments and aerial reconnaissance as part of the State Emergency Response Team following Hurricane Fran.

Outreach Coordinator, Haw River Assembly. January 1996 – June 1996. Assisted the Haw River Assembly, a private non-profit environmental group, with community education and public outreach efforts. Tasks centered on the development, implementation, and management of three community-based river festivals, which educates individuals, local governments, state agencies, and businesses about their impact on the Haw River. Work involved supervising the activities of over 75 volunteers; giving presentations to community groups, school children, environmental organizations, and state agencies; managing event logistics; preparing press releases; conducting newspaper interviews; and publicizing Haw River Assembly events.

Campaign Coordinator, Environmental Federation of North Carolina. September 1995 – November 1995. Developed, promoted, managed, and implemented eight environmental resource fairs across North Carolina that served to improve networking opportunities between North Carolina university faculty, students, staff, and environmental groups that are part of the North Carolina Environmental Federation (EFNC). Specific tasks included managing over 40 volunteers, publicizing events, conducting interviews with local media, writing press releases, garnering volunteer support, increasing EFNC memberships, and disseminating information to member organizations, interested environmental groups, citizens, and state agencies. Completed doctoral dissertation, The Transformation of Environmental Conflict: A Game Theoretic Approach, which described how policy dialogue may result in improved decision making and the resolution of multi-party disputes.

Research Associate, Hazard Reduction and Recovery Center, Texas A&M University. September 1992 – August 1995. Worked on two research projects, including a nationwide review of search and rescue activities following disasters and the analysis of the level of cooperation among emergency managers and local land use planners. The first project involved interviewing over 100 survivors of 12 natural and technological disasters that occurred across the United States. Additional interviews were conducted with emergency management officials, police and fire personnel, physicians, and Emergency Medical Technicians. Reports linking the findings to specific policy recommendations were presented to project colleagues and local officials during bi-monthly meetings. The second project involved a study of inter-organizational coordination between local planning departments and local emergency management offices. Tasks included creating a survey instrument, identifying relevant literature, analyzing data, and linking the findings to hypothesized results.

Research Assistant, Texas State Data Center, Texas A&M University. January 1991 – September 1992. Compiled demographic data and assisted with the creation and editing of reports and journal articles that were used by local, state, and federal agencies to establish policy based on the findings. Assisted local governments with the collection and analysis of demographic data. This information was used to make more informed policy decisions based on population growth projections, planned development, and existing land use. Gathered data, performed calculations, and assisted in the writing of the text, Applied Demography: An Introduction to Basic Concepts, Methods and Data. Completed the writing of master's thesis titled: Growth Machine Theory: A Qualitative Analysis.

Association of State Floodplain Managers. Tom Lee Award for State Excellence–Platinum Level, 2001. North Carolina Floodplain Mapping Initiative.

American Institute of Planners / Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning. Collaborative Project Award, 2001. North Carolina Hazard Mitigation Planning Initiative.

National Hurricane Conference. Outstanding Achievement Award – Mitigation, 2001.

The Conservation Fund. Community Champion Award, 2001.

Federal Emergency Management Agency. Project Impact State of the Year, 2000.

North Carolina Department of Crime Control and Public Safety. Meritorious Service Award, 2000.

UNIVERSITY COURSES TAUGHT

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill:

- Planning for Natural Hazards and Climate Change Adaptation (PLAN 755 - 3 hours) – (Fall 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2018)
- Natural Hazards Resilience Speaker Series (PLAN 754 - 1 hour) – (Spring 2016, 2017, 2018)
- Survey of Natural Hazards and Disasters (PLAN 756 - 3 hours) – (Spring 2015, Spring 2016, Fall 2017)
- Disaster Recovery Planning Workshop (3 hours) – (Spring 2017); Co-taught with Dr. Mai Nguyen
- Independent Study: Building Resilience to Coastal Hazards in Hawai'i: Strengthening the Post-Disaster Recovery Process (2.5 hours) – (Summer 2016)
- Independent Study: The Role of States in Disaster Recovery (3 hours) – (Spring 2016)
- Independent Study: Coastal Economic Resilience (3 hours) – (Spring 2015)
- Independent Study: Master's Projects (3 hours) – (Spring 2012, Fall 2013, Spring 2015)
- Special Topics: Disaster Recovery Planning (3 hours) – (Spring 2002)

University of Hawaii at Manoa:

- Disaster Recovery Planning Seminar (Summer 2012, 2013)
- Disaster Recovery Planning Seminar (Summer 2014 – Bandung Institute of Technology, Bandung, Indonesia.

Venice International University in Partnership with Duke University:

- Environmental Management in a Changing World: Coping with Sea Level Rise (Summer 2016 – one-week summer course in Venice, Italy).

Guest lecturer in college and university courses in the United States and abroad (see college and university guest lectures and presentations section)

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING COURSES TAUGHT

National Disaster Preparedness Training Center, University of Hawaii

- Advanced Disaster Recovery Strategies for Local Communities (8-hour course)
 - Fall 2015 – Raleigh, North Carolina.
 - Spring 2016 – Warwick, Rhode Island; Phoenix, Arizona.
